SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENTS WHO GRADUATED IN FALL 2021

Katie Akerman, recipient of the Robert M. Cheadle Memorial Scholarship, graduated from the University of Oklahoma with a Master of Legal Studies in Indigenous Peoples Law.

“The Lord has bestowed a blessing upon me in receiving the Robert Martin Cheadle Memorial Scholarship. I am familiar with Mr. Cheadle in my research of the Chickasaw Nation tribal court system for my program of study at the University of Oklahoma. I have learned of his time as a tribal judge and his involvement in drafting the 1983 constitution. It is an honor to have the opportunity to represent his contribution to the sovereignty of the Chickasaw Nation through this scholarship. I took the opportunity to read Mr. Cheadle’s biography upon receipt of my congratulatory letter and I am truly touched by his choice to include the Oglala Lakota phrase, “Mitakuye Oyasin.” I hope to fill his vision of life with integrity, respect and cheerfulness. Thank you to the scholarship donors, staff, and reviewers for your time and commitment to better the lives of others, especially in my own life and career. I pray for continued success of the Foundation and for those whose lives are touched by it.”

Johanna Dill, recipient of the Donald D. and J. Wenonah Gunning Memorial Scholarship, graduated from Arizona State University with a Masters Degree in Health Informatics.

“I wanted to send my sincerest gratitude to the Chickasaw Foundation. As we all know, the scholarship application process can often be rigorous and discouraging. This year, I found a lot of scholarships slipping through my fingers, and it was reassuring to know that the tribe believed in me and supported my educational journey. Obtaining my master’s degree in health informatics wouldn’t have been possible otherwise, so thank you.”

Bethany Bench, recipient of the Lynn C. Gibson Memorial Scholarship, graduated from Cameron University with a bachelor’s in Elementary Education.

“The scholarships received by the Chickasaw Foundation are the reason I was capable of reaching my goals! I was able to further my education and get a degree in elementary education thanks to this scholarship!”

Adara Finnerty, recipient of the Chickasaw Foundation Fine Arts Scholarship, graduated from Middle Tennessee State University with a bachelor’s in Recording Industry/Commercial Songwriting.

“The Chickasaw Foundation Fine Arts Scholarship supported me financially which allowed me to focus on my schoolwork, along with my creativity in songwriting and artistry. I cannot thank the Chickasaw Foundation enough for supporting students, like myself, along our higher education journey.”

MARY MINOR - NEW SCHOLARSHIP DONOR

"The scholarship that I established in memory of my husband," Mary Minor, wife of the late Lancelot Minor III, said, "is the story of two pieces of my life coming together in one place."

Mary's family happened to be the owners of land previously owned by Chickasaw people. "To tell the second part of the story I must go back 200 years when an ancestor of my mother bought several acres of Chickasaw land in southwest Tennessee from an agent," she explained. "I never think about this transaction without emotion. And since our family held onto that land for so many years, this is more astounding yet: that there was, in the year 2021, soil that had been only owned — since the 1600s, as I understand it — by two entities: the Chickasaw people and our family."

Then the time came to sell the land last year. "I mourned the loss of connection to the people who had called that land home so long ago," she said. "I thought with a portion [of] the sale that would come to me that I might go about doing something useful for the people from whom my ancestor had purchased the land and in doing so even strengthen the relationship."

That is when, through her own research, she wound up on the phone with Johnna R. Walker, the chief executive officer of the Chickasaw Foundation. "As the time of the sale seemed to be nearing, I began to investigate opportunities and ended up on the phone with Johnna," Mary said. "She mentioned the scholarships that are awarded through the Foundation; it got me thinking about having wanted to honor my husband's memory with a law school scholarship."

Mary knew what she wanted to do next. "... two of the desires of my heart came together in the one opportunity. I was able to honor Lance's memory and his passion for the practice of law as well as, hopefully, benefit students of Chickasaw descent and enrich a relationship with the Chickasaw people."

And with that, the Lancelot Minor III Memorial Law Scholarship was established.

Mary was quick to explain how much Lance enjoyed practicing law. But she was even quicker to note his love for Jesus Christ. "From the start he absolutely loved being a lawyer; he loved the great variety of people whom he was able to assist in so many different ways; he was as happy to be arguing a case to a judge or jury as he was to be honing a document so that it might accomplish exactly what the client needed in his business," she said. "Lance was first a follower of Jesus, a natural peacemaker and a man of integrity."

Mary has a specific goal for this new scholarship. "I would like to see how God's Spirit might work in the hearts and lives of individuals with a shared history," she explained. "Once our lives touched because of land and from here on they will touch because of dreams." She also hopes it inspires future recipients. "I hope that the students who receive this scholarship find joy in serving others as Lance did in his professional life and that the Chickasaw Foundation would be doubly blessed as they give back, once established in their careers," she said. "The decision to attend law school is a significant undertaking and I know that Lance's memory will be honored as we come alongside students that take on that challenge."

The remaining school supplies were provided to the Chickasaw Nation's After School Program. The donated money was earmarked for the Inchokkaalaali program.

A LETTER FROM THE SCHOOL-AGE PROGRAM

"I wanted to take a moment on behalf of the Chickasaw Nation School-Age Program to express our gratitude for the much-needed classroom supplies that you so generously donated to our program. Serving close to (400) children each day in our after-school programs, we are always in need of much needed supplies such as backpacks, markers, crayons and folders, to name a few. I can't begin to thank you enough for thinking of us but most importantly our children. We are extremely proud of our program and the opportunities we are able to provide them each and every day. Our goal is to provide a safe, fun, nurturing environment that will allow us the best opportunity to mold, shape and guide our children to becoming caring, confident youth and future leaders.

Special thanks to the Chickasaw Foundation for supporting us to accomplish our mission! We truly appreciate your donation and thank you so much for caring the way that you do!

The following is from the parents of Jamison John Pettitt:

Bringing a child into this world is always an exciting yet frightening thing. It was that and more for Jordan and Zach Pettitt. Jordan, a registered dental hygienist, and Zach, an asset management coordinator, found out some scary news at one of their ultrasound appointments. "When I [Jordan] was 20 weeks pregnant our baby, Jamison John Pettitt, was diagnosed during an ultrasound with a heart defect called Dextro-Transposition of the Great Arteries (d-TGA)," she said. "This means his two main arteries carrying blood out of the heart (the pulmonary artery and the aorta) were switched in position."

Unfortunately for the Pettitt family, this meant surgery. "We were informed that he would need open-heart surgery (an arterial switch operation) soon after he was born in order for him to survive ... Jamison was born on Feb. 3, 2021, at OU Children's Hospital."

Just moments after Jamison was born, he needed immediate care as he was already in critical condition. "When he was born, he was blue in color due to low oxygen levels, and he had to have a balloon atrial septostomy right away. This is a procedure used to improve oxygenation of the blood."

A mere five days later Jamison had open-heart surgery. "There were many ups and downs during our stay in the cardiac ICU/NICU, but Jamison fought hard through all of the obstacles and was able to come home with us one month after he was born," Jordan explained.

"We are so grateful for the funds we received through the Foundation program." Receiving help through the Foundation helped reduce the stress they had through this whole process. "It alleviated many of the financial burdens we acquired during our monthlong stay and was one less thing we had to stress about. This was the hardest thing we have ever gone through in our lives and we will forever be thankful for the amazing support of our family, friends, co-workers and the Chickasaw Foundation."

THANK YOU MESSAGE

Thank you for sharing the information from the Chickasaw Foundation! You and your staff have excelled in helping Chickasaw citizens with their needs during the disasters citizens have encountered. Congratulations on work well done!

Thank you,

THE CHICKASAW NATION DISASTER RELIEF & RECOVERY FUND

Supporting Chickasaws who have been victims of disasters is a primary goal of the Chickasaw Nation Disaster Relief & Recovery Fund. We expended $67,871.25, and issued 135 VISA gift cards to Chickasaw citizens, their families and Chickasaw Nation employees impacted by natural disasters such as the winter storms in Oklahoma and Texas, Tropical Storm Claudette, hurricanes Ida and Nicholas, the wildfires in California and the tornadoes in Kentucky.

The Harrison Family:

“When we were told about the relief funds,” Tara Harrison said, “we were in shock at how fast and generous the Chickasaw Foundation and the Ada Area Office got these funds to us.”

The Harrison family were among the victims of the blistery snow and ice storm in February 2021. Along with thousands of other families, their pipes froze and busted; they were also concerned about taking care of their children. “We received our funds right after our pipes froze and busted,” Tara explained, “so not to worry about fixing the pipes and getting our water back on with two children in the home was really nice.”

The funds they received were huge for them. “It was a weird time and the funds helped tremendously on a few things we really needed at the time,” she added. “We will always be grateful to the Chickasaw Foundation and the Chickasaw Nation for their generosity.”

COACH HOUSTON NUTT AND MRS. DIANA NUTT

He said he needs to improve his game so he can win more money to donate!
